Learn to Love - Love to Learn

This always seems to be such a busy time of year in school. We are frantic preparing for all the events and activities that the summer term brings and also starting to think ahead to next year. On Wednesday evening we welcomed the parents and carers of the reception children starting school in September. I remember attending such meetings myself, the excitement of starting school alongside the worries and anxieties of how my children would settle in. My youngest is 16 now and about to leave school, but it does seem it was only a few years ago! Time does fly by nowadays but we must remember that for the children a year is 'ages' and therefore we must continue to fill them with the experiences and opportunities that enable them to grow and flourish. With residential visits, days out, visitors, fetes, legacy walls, sporting events and so much more going on this term I am confident many lasting memories will be made.

Work continues on our quiet garden and this will soon be an area to enhance both our school grounds and the curriculum. If you have any expertise or simply a passion that could help us over the final hurdles in completing this project please let us know.

Please remember that this is a long weekend at that due to Mondays' bank holiday the school is closed to all.

Have a wonderful weekend everybody and tomorrow;
May the 4th Be With You - happy Star Wars day!

Mr Albrow

This term's core value: Hope

Next week's theme: Light

"Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that." Martin Luther King Jr

"Hope is being able to see that there is light despite all of the darkness." Desmond Tutu

"You may think your light is small, but it can make a huge difference in other people's lives." Anonymous

"Travel light, live light, spread light, be the light." Yogi Bhaian
